CLINICAL PROGRAM NARRATIVE

During my time at UNM, I helped to start a nurse-led primary care practice embedded in a practice of Doctors of Oriental Medicine, called Mountain Spirit Integrative Medicine in Santa Fe. I am not currently in clinical practice, however I remain actively involved in the field through the Academy of Integrative Health and Medicine and the American Holistic Nurses Association

RESEARCH PROGRAM NARRATIVE

I am writing and doing translational educational research and policy development in the field of Planetary Health and Climate Change and Health. I am also researching and working on the health impacts of nature immersion. I am a reviewer and contributor to the annual Lancet Countdown on Climate Change and Health, US Policy Brief.

In 2023 I joined the Environmental Health Research Institute for Nurse and Clinician Scientists (EHRI-NCS)2023 Cohort

In my role as the Director of Interprofessional Education, I have co-developed an Innovative IPE HONors Program, and I am collaborating on research to understand how the UNM HSC health professions education and outreach opportunities support the development of Interprofessional Professionalism competencies in our learners.

Summary of Service Activities:

I continue to serve on the UNM Teaching Enhancement Committee and am currently co-chair of this committee. I am actively engaged in the diversity and equity work at the HSC and in the College of Nursing. I am working with several faculty to enhance the existing Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (JEDI) content in our graduate and undergraduate programs.

In New Mexico, I serve on the board of Littlelobe and am a non voting member/UNM representative for the Coalition of Sustainable Communities New Mexico.

I am on the Board of Directors for the Academy of Integrative Health and Medicine. I am the chair of the AHNA Planetary Health Task Force and am a member of the AHNA Research Committee, the Global Consortium of Climate Change and Health Education Nurses Working Group and am engaged with the Alliance of Nurses for Healthy Environments.

TEACHING NARRATIVE

I have developed or co-developed several innovative courses for UNM in my 8 years as faculty, including interdisciplinary courses on A Systems Approach to Planetary Health (start Spring 2023) and on Climate Change and Public Health Preparedness (Spring 2020-present) which has the Golden Paw. I developed and lead the N 518 Nurse Leadership in Population Health course for the MSN Administration program. I have also developed and am lead for the N554 course on Evidence Informed Practice for the APRN Primary Care programs, and I am lead for the N501 course on Theoretical Foundations in Nursing, which has the Golden Paw. This course has recently shifted to center theories by Black, Indigenous and Persons of Color and Culture. I am current co-lead on the development of the 10 core courses for the 2023 inaugural BSN-DNP program.

I am the Director of the Office of Interprofessional Education for the UNM HSC and through this work I have innovated an IPE honors program with over 730 students enrolled. I have collaborated with academic health professions programs to develop and deliver IPE didactic and experiential programming. I have a secondary appointment in the UNM Sustainability Studies program and a secondary appointment in the College of Population Health for my work in Interprofessional Education and Planetary Health.
